The first mature boil of cotton that has reached the city was shown to us yesterday by Messra. Ford, Porter & Co. The cotton was raised by John Buchanan, a colored planter, who takes pride in his cotton-growing skill. He is likely to be a contestant for some of the prizes at the agricultural fair.

Hawk, Mississippi, on the 3d instant, says: "Crops are sorry in this locality. The great quantities of rain got them in the grass. About the list of July the rains stopped; for about twenty-five days we had no rain. That gave an opportunity of partly getting the grass out. The grass and dry weather have operated heavily on the cotton. It is just about where it ought to be about the 4th of July. Corn crops are very sorry, the bottoms ail drowned are very sorry, the bottoms all drowned out, and the dry weather cut the hills off. More corn planted this year, and less cotton than last year." -John Huber is unfortunate in it marital relations. About any year ago or so his first wife got away from him with a sprig of iniquesy, who kept bar at the Cadmin, and who had wormed himself sto her affections by his grace in dancing (another strong argument against the vile practice of dancing). John got a prompt divorce, and quickly established another union with a person of the "opposite sex." Now there is another hill of divorce filed in the Second Chancery

Court for alleged irregularities. If John continues to get a new wife and a new divorce every year, his experience, when he comes to die, may be as varied and ex-tensive as that of Solomon. -On Thursday night, a gentleman i forms us, there was a peculiar piece of highway robbery perpetrated on Beale street, near the market. A nice and well pleased young man was walking along trun-in-arm with a loving girl, when burly fellow stepped up and took the girl away, saying she was his. He overcame the gallant by giving him a few slaps in the face and drawing a pistol. The out-raged young man followed a few steps, but concluded it was better to withdraw and lower his virul is valid.

Rushing frantically into the house, he procured a long butcher-knife and sailled forth to make bloody war on the negro, A running fight ensued, knife on one side Arthuning night ensued, knile on one side and rock on the other, from Jefferson down to Union, along the levee. It was a splendid battle, in and out behind skid piles and heaps of freight, until Captain Athey got them under his ken. He commanded the peace, "toted" the belligerents to the station-house. Smith was fined $15 by the Recorder. -An accident, which came very nes reving fatal, occurred on Beale street restorday. A street restored car wi oming in cityward with a load colonickers, and as it passed toward We lington atreat a horse, hauling a buggy, became frightened at the gay colors of ladles' dresses, and bolted. He managed to overturn the buggy and klok up fits generally. Mr. James J. Farrell, a Clerk of the Second Circuit Court, who was rid-ing in the street car, jumped off and ar-rested the headlong driving horse. The shaft of the buggy struck him in the ribs and knocked him down, but he still man-aged to hang on until he stopped the meddened animal. The horse bit him in very spite, when he found that he could LOCAL NEWS.
